Session 195: Maintain balance between physical and abstract

Summary: Eventually, you will know that the two worlds will merge together. One emerged too much in the physical and denying mine and other sources of knowledge is denying themselves. Those who enter into the imagination to the degree that they reject and deny the physical and that world which man has made as long as he is in that world will run into as much difficulty as the man who has emerged in the physical without looking towards those subjects such as your religion, your after life, the death states and so forth.
